

ANNUAL CONFERENCE ASSOCIAZIONE DONNE E SCIENZA
#WETOINSIENZA

“Sexual Harassment in Higher Education Institutions and Research Performing Organizations”
20-21 SEPTEMBER 2018

Pisa is in Tuscany region, in Central Italy, on the banks of the Arno just before it empties into the Tirrenian Sea. Although Pisa is known worldwide for its leaning tower (the bell tower of the cathedral), the city of over 90 thousand residents can boast more than 20 other historic churches, several important palaces from medieval and renaissance time and other places of interest, including museums, the walkable city walls and other attractions. Much of the city's architecture is still based on its history as one of the Italian maritime republics.

The city is also home of the University of Pisa, dating back to the 12th century, the Scuola Normale Superiore di Pisa, founded by Napoleon in 1810 and hosted in beautiful building in Piazza dei Cavalieri, and its offshoot, the Sant'Anna School of Advanced Studies.

TRAVELLING TO PISA

Air

Pisa is connected through the Pisa International Airport located in San Giusto neighborhood in Pisa. Connection between the Airport and the Central station is provided via the people mover, called Pisamover, an automated transport system opened in March 2017, that covers the 2 km distance in about 5 minutes.

Trains

The city is served by two railway stations : Pisa Centrale and Pisa San Rossore.

Pisa Centrale is the main station and it connects Pisa directly with several other important Italian cities such as Rome, Florence, Genoa, Turin, Naples, Livorno, and Grosseto.

Pisa San Rossore links the city with Lucca (20 minutes away) and Viareggio and is also reachable from Pisa Centrale. It is a minor railway station, close to the Leaning Tower, and to the Conference venue.

Car

From Florence or Livorno, Pisa can be reached through the hi-speed route FiPiLi. Exit Pisa Centro.

From Grosseto-Rome, or Genova-Milano, reach Pisa via the Autostrada (hiway) A11, and take the Pisa Centro-Aeroporto exit, from where you can easily reach the center following indications.
